HOLLYWOOD, FL – In recognition of National Pollution Prevention Week, Mayor Mara Giuliani will hold a press conference on Monday, September 18 at 3:00 p.m. at Hollywood City Hall, located at 2600 Hollywood Boulevard, in Room 215.

Mayor Giuliani will address Global Warming/Climate Change and the danger it has on the City of Hollywood, Broward County and all of South Florida. In addition, she will announce several major community initiatives that will aid in decreasing greenhouse gas emissions in Hollywood.

Recently, Mayor Giuliani signed the National Mayors Climate Protection Agreement committing the City of Hollywood to strive to meet or beat the Kyoto Protocol targets and reduce CO2 greenhouse emissions in the City. She will ask her colleagues on the City Commission to support the creation of the Hollywood Green Team, a collaboration of government, private and public organizations and individuals to guide the City's efforts to reduce energy consumption and greenhouse gas emissions.

On Tuesday, Sept. 19th Mayor Giuliani will receive the Protector of the Climate Award from the Broward County Audubon Society at the Global Warming/Climate Change Concert and Teaching Event at the Hollywood Central Performing Arts Center, 1770 Monroe Street. This free event will begin at 7:30 p.m.
